1. Statement

|-------------------------------|-------------------|-----|
| Novelty (N) | Claims 1-9, 11-13 | YES |
| | Claims 10 | NO |
| Inventive step (IS) | Claims 1-9, 11-13 | YES |
| | Claims 10 | NO |
| Industrial applicability (IA) | Claims 1-13 | YES |
| | Claims | NO |

2. Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)

The citations in the ISR are all 'A' documents and Claims 1-9, 11-13, are novel and inventive with respect to these citations. However, the following new citations have been found for Claim 10 with respect to which Claim 10 lacks novelty:

NOVELTY (N) & INVENTIVE STEP: Claim 10

New Citations:

(a) GB 205246 A (BIDERMAN) 18 October 1923

This citation discloses a comb for cleansing hair as well as for wearing in hair. It is certainly a spreading device with recesses and teeth that separates the strands of hair and maintains the strands at pre-determined distances. Please see page 2, lines 86-101, of this citation where it is disclosed how the comb works. This comb can be placed diagonally with respect to the strands of hair, it can also be then oriented to lie transversely to the strands.

(b) US 3805858 A (MORIN) 23 April 1974

This citation discloses an apparatus for delimbing trees. Please refer particularly to column 2, line 30-column 3, line 3. It is disclosed that beam 28 has teeth 52 with recesses in between and that beam 28 spreads tree trunks as shown in figures 4 and 5. This beam can be placed diagonally with respect to the trunks, it can also be then oriented to lie transversely to the trunks. For example, if the pile of trunks in figure 4 are slightly askew, the beam 28 oriented in the raised position, as in figure 4, is 'diagonally' placed with respect to these trunks; the beam is then brought down to the horizontal position, as in figure 5, hence re-orientated, and is then transversely placed with respect to the trunks.

All this claim defines is a single comb-like device that can be oriented, that is, merely has the possibility or potential of being put, in various positions with respect to side-by side elements. Each citation above discloses a spreading device that has the same potential. Hence each citation discloses all the features of the claim.
